

CDC News (May 2000)

A special CDC meeting was held on 5 May 2000. At the meeting, the proposed recommendations on curriculum reform in the EC Report "Review of the Education System – Reform Proposals: Excel and Grow" was briefed and the draft consultative document "Holistic Review of the School Curriculum – Building on Strengths" was deliberated.

During the meeting, members suggested that the philosophy and the principles regarding the school curriculum should be clearly stated in the draft consultative document "Holistic Review of the School Curriculum – Building on Strengths". This may help the general public to have a better and clearer understanding of the focus of curriculum reform. Also, valuable contributions were provided by members on generic skills, implementation strategies, the curriculum content and their interconnectedness of the eight key learning areas.
