

Student A

Finally, the student LED project has come to an end. There will be no more core member meeting or any sharing sessions to remind us about what we underwent. Yet, our memories, friendship and what we really learnt last forever and they are having positive impact to our personal growth.

During the project, I found time management extremely important. The lack of time management has led us into difficult situation. Taking the A0 poster for the sharing session as an example, we almost missed the deadline as we were still making changes in the last minute. I believe that most of our difficulties occurred due to the lack of time management. Therefore, I think I will focus more from this aspect next time when I am working.

Besides, I also found out why people are always talking about “communication skill”. In the past, I thought that communication skill is just a big term that adults quote to make them feel good. I did not believe that there is such thing called communication skill exists in the world and the need of it. We just need to speak to each other then it is a communication. However, the truth is not like that. Communication skills are needed to make sure that I present my ideas clearly and the listeners can receive my thoughts precisely so that we can build a successful communication. The quality of communication plays an important role in the whole project. Bad communication between team members may easily lead to argument, hence unhappy working environment with high stress which reduces the productivity, quality and team spirit.

In terms of communication skills, I found that we should try to express ourselves actively while we are doing group work. I was a person who just sits in group discussions and seldom give out opinion because I was not confident enough. However, I found that there is no use to think of ideas silently in group discussions. If I don't speak, people will never understand what I am thinking of. Even I have great idea, they will not be adopted as no one knows about it. Letting the others to know about my ideas is the point of communication. Therefore, I tried to speak more and tell people about my ideas in the project. I found that it is not such hard thing to do. Even I had some bad idea, team members just politely declined it and switch to the other ideas. No one will be laughing at me even my idea is not good enough. Therefore, there is no need to be shy to express myself.

In Conclusion, the student LED project and the service programme itself gave me a new learning experience that I have never had. I feel honor to have a chance to participate this project. I hope that my other schoolmates could have the same chance as I do to participate similar projects.

Tai O Service Trip

- I learnt to observe things from different perspectives and to care others, eg. Appreciate what others did.
- I learnt lots of things related to the culture in Tai O and tried to follow their lifestyle. Also, I experienced lots of things that I've never tried before.

I appreciate myself ...

- Try my best to cooperate with others and follow Tai O's culture.
- Tried to make those elderly laugh and bring up their past memories.

I appreciate my classmate ...

- Some of my classmates tried their best to ask questions and bring up their past memories.
- Some of them tried to lead all the others to do the performance for the elderly/ lead others throughout the whole programme.

Tai O Service Trip

I have learnt to do more things that I have never done before which is kind of challenging as well as got to more about the lifestyle and culture of Tai O. Visiting the elderly also helps me to gain understandings about the Tai O citizens. It also helped me to learn more about how to communicate and cooperate with the teammates. Therefore, I think I have grown up so much after the service programme and I wish we could have more similar meaningful activities in the future.

I appreciate myself ...

I tried my best to adapt and follow the lifestyle of the Tai O citizens and experience their daily life. Moreover, I have also tried to face challenges and do things that I have never done before such as mangrove cleaning, visiting the elderly, perform for them... etc.

I appreciate my classmate ... Most of them paid a great effort to do their best, things like cooperating with teammates, listen to others opinion, face new challenges and participate in activities enthusiastically. I think all of us have really done a great job and learnt a lot of different things throughout this programme.

Tai O Service Trip

I found out that those elderly are different to those who live in the city. I learnt about the history of those elderly. I found out that there are loads of ways to care someone who live in a faraway place. Also, I found out that this trip can also kind of like pull us together and make us become like a family, and it makes me don't want to leave Tai O.

I appreciate myself ...

Try hard to achieve my goal and I really try hard to take care of the elderly and respect all things there.

I appreciate my classmate ...

My classmates try hard to amuse those elderly, and they try hard for completing the activities. Also, they really try hard to talk to the elderly and understand what they are talking about.
